

SUSIE'S FAMILY STORY

by June.w

Christmas Eve of 2020.

A book was born to be,

Inspired by the warmth of Christmas cheer,

Susie's family came to me.

I hope this story spreads joy and light,

To children far and near,

Bringing love and warmth to every heart,

A gift throughout the year.

PART.001

SEASON 1, EPISODE 5-1: EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATORS SHINE

On that magical Christmas Eve, Susie left the store after 9 o'clock. The lights at Grandma Lucy's house had all dimmed, signaling that Little Hunter and Grandma Lucy were now asleep. However, Grandpa Ken continued to watch over the store, just like a warm lighthouse in the sea, guiding the town through the cold night.

After a soothing, hot bath, Susie prepared for bed, her mind filled with thoughts of Mr. Tanya and the exciting possibilities that lay ahead. The museum in the sky sounded fascinating, but there was one burning question in her mind - was it free?

Susie enjoyed a restful night's sleep, knowing that it was Christmas morning. She opened her curtains to a breathtaking sight - a beautiful snowy landscape outside her window, complete with a Santa Claus snowman.

Susie chuckled, realizing that the snowman was likely the creation of her young neighbor, Tom, using materials from his mother's rag collection. It brought a smile to her face.

After a hearty breakfast of pancakes, milk, and eggs, Susie was ready to start her day. But before heading out, she had a brilliant idea - why not call Eggshell Lawyer and get some answers? With determination, Susie dialed the number and was greeted by a friendly young voice. After explaining her situation, the girl on the other end informed her that the law firm was closed for Christmas but suggested visiting them at 19 Ya Ale Court after the New Year's Day holiday.

Determined to verify everything herself, Susie agreed to the plan. However, the girl had one more surprise: Tanya wanted to speak with her.

Tanya called and expressed his delight at Susie's interest in the museum. Susie explained that she was soon to be a mother herself and had concerns about her child's safety. Mr. Tanya reassured her and arranged to meet her during her lunch break.

As Susie continued her day at the quiet breakfast shop, customers came and went, and noon arrived in the blink of an eye. Susie had a quick lunch of bolognese noodles from the freezer, anticipating her meeting with Tanya.

Right on schedule, Eggshell Lawyer arrived, wearing her distinctive eggshell outfit with a Christmas hat. Susie couldn't help but comment on how cute she looked.

Tanya invited Susie to have lunch with her, but she had already eaten. Instead, she offered to pour her a cup of coffee. The lawyer's lunch was simple yet healthy, featuring snow peas, steamed salmon, potatoes, and carrots.

Over coffee, Tanya explained that she wasn't there to teach her that day but to introduce her to the museum in the sky and address all her doubts.

Their discussion turned into an impromptu Christmas party. Tanya introduced Susie to other educators from the Sky Kindergarten through a video call, all dressed in colorful eggshell outfits.

They called themselves the "Seven Cucurbit Brothers" and shared laughter and joy. Each teacher had a unique role, from building self-confidence to instilling optimism and helping children find their goals.

Teacher M, a child psychology expert from the UK, emphasized the importance of building self-confidence in children. Teacher Q Egg focused on teaching children to see the world positively and optimistically.

Teacher X Egg, along with his son Little Golden Egg, helped children discover their goals, while Teacher R discussed the significance of money and its potential to positively impact lives.

Teacher IY Egg, a nurse with over 30 years of experience, and Teacher IH Egg, a construction engineer, teamed up to teach children about Each educator had a unique perspective and passion for helping children and their families. Susie was overwhelmed with joy and hope as she embraced the wealth of knowledge and opportunities the museum in the sky offered.

As the video call continued, Susie realized that her baby, Little Golden Egg, had the perfect name for the course offered by Teacher R. She was thrilled to see her baby's name associated with such a meaningful endeavor.

Teacher T, also known as Tanya, introduced herself as a law firm partner and emphasized the importance of safety education and legal knowledge in early childhood education.

As the educators shared their stories and expertise, Susie felt a newfound sense of hope and excitement for the future. She knew that the museum in the sky was not just an ordinary place - it was a place of learning, growth, and endless possibilities.

And so, on this Christmas day, Susie's heart was filled with gratitude for the gift of knowledge and the promise of a brighter future for her family and her Little Golden Egg.
