

SUSIE'S FAMILY STORY

by June.w

Christmas Eve of 2020.

A book was born to be,

Inspired by the warmth of Christmas cheer,

Susie's family came to me.

I hope this story spreads joy and light,

To children far and near,

Bringing love and warmth to every heart,

A gift throughout the year.

PART.009

SEASON 1, EPISODE 6: MEETING THE SELF-CONFIDENT EGG

"Hello, teacher!" Susie greeted Tanya with a smile as they prepared to dive into the new year. The clock was ticking, and the ringing of the New Year in 2021 was imminent.

Tanya, the head teacher of the Matrix Kids CARDS Museum, had a significant role to play. She not only oversaw Course T but also acted as the class teacher for both Susie and Hunter. She was responsible for designing their learning schedules.

"Good day, Susie. As they say, actions speak louder than words. Since the Matrix Kids CARDS Museum is now open to you and Hunter, we take our responsibility seriously. Let's begin right away!" With these words, Tanya retrieved a green-covered folder from his computer bag and handed Susie the first page titled "Susie's Eggshell Early Childhood Education Curriculum Schedule."

Susie couldn't believe her luck; she had encountered such a dedicated teacher. She eagerly scanned the schedule and noted the first course: "Confident Eggs," instructed by A, with accompanying teacher O.

The classes were scheduled for Saturdays at 12:30 noon with M and Sundays at noon. The syllabus was divided into several weeks, focusing on topics such as self-praise, vision board creation, and a three-step process.

Susie's heart swelled with gratitude. "Tanya, let's meet this Saturday since it's Tuesday," she suggested.

"Of course! Before Saturday, I'll provide you with a music list on a USB drive, along with a movie CD, 'The Shawshank Redemption.' Watch it and reflect on how it makes you feel," Tanya replied. Excitement was palpable in Susie's voice as she agreed to the task. Before they parted, O, the accompanying teacher, handed Susie an eco-friendly bag adorned with drawings of Mrs. Eggshell, making her feel empowered and motivated.

After her night shift at the store, as the clock neared 9 o'clock, Susie performed a final round of disinfection and prepared to head home. She couldn't help but miss her parents. Before leaving, she called them, expressing her love: "I love you, Mom and Dad!" Their heartfelt response warmed her.

As Susie washed up at home, she couldn't resist the urge to start watching the movie. Upon opening the recyclable bag, she discovered a card tucked inside.

The card read:

Tears welled up in Susie's eyes as she was deeply moved. Turning the card over, she burst into laughter, finding a cheerful message.

The card instructed her not to cry, to read it aloud every morning, and before bedtime. Susie decided to follow the advice, making it a part of her daily routine.

Among the contents shared by Tanya was a music list that included Katy Perry's empowering song, "Roar." Another song, "Daisies," by the same artist, was also on the list. Interestingly, Katy Perry was herself a pregnant woman in one of her music videos.

Susie followed the guidance, reading aloud and singing "Roar" with Katy Perry, which filled her with a sense of empowerment.

In the next scene, Saturday arrived, marking the day of Susie's first Confidence Egg class.

"Susie, you look full of energy!" A exclaimed as they met for the second time. Susie beamed with excitement. It was only her second meeting with A, who lived in a different country, several hours away from her small town. Mrs. M was elegantly dressed in an orange-red V-neck shirt, her blond hair adding to her charm.

Susie eagerly shared how her week had been, mentioning how she diligently read the card and listened to Katy Perry's songs for motivation. She felt grateful for the positive impact it had on her.

As the class began, Tanya arrived, and even Grandpa Ken, Grandma Lucy, and Hunter joined in. Ken's small shop's small warehouse had turned into a cozy learning center. Grandpa Ken had arranged for Hunter to attend the class, and the place also allowed him to observe the session. The little supermarket and small warehouse now buzzed with activity.

As the video call continued, it was revealed that many people were watching behind the camera. O, holding his mobile phone and power bank, warmly greeted Grandpa Ken, Grandma Lucy, and Hunter, emphasizing the importance of maintaining social distance.

A took the opportunity to share his unique surroundings with the class. He was visiting the zoo, accompanied by his wife. The zoo's limited opening hours due to the pandemic had prompted their visit to support the establishment. The unexpected highlight was spotting a shy raccoon.

The class embarked on a mission to praise, starting with the raccoon. Each participant took a piece of paper to write down a self-praise and a compliment for others in the room. The notes would be read aloud by Tanya later.

Hunter, not yet proficient in spelling, was encouraged to draw pictures instead. The atmosphere was one of positivity and mutual appreciation.
